

Lunatica, The Incredibles

Once upon a time there was
A planet so tiny and blue
It was perfect place to be
But one life form on it wanted more
But they don't see that it's half past twelve
To run a blind eye is the easier way
As lone as they feel safe in their beds
There's no need to wake up from their dream
But the truth no longer hides
They must see what tehy'll leave behind
Wake up. mankind, your time is running out
Give your children the chance to makes things right
Now the planet is striking back
And, of course, the lamenting is big Globoal warmimg, pollution as well
Is no enough to make them understand
That now is the time to change their behaviour and world's fate
Wake up. mankind, your time is running out
Give your children the chance to makes things right
