

Lux Courageous, Hey...It Just Feels Better

Shake it off of your skin
You can only run on these killer legs of yours for so long
You know how you move me and make panic like a child
You could be lying so well
But anything that leaves you seems to latch onto my lungs
Hey it just feels better to blame you all the time
It just feels better to say I never did a goddamn thing
I grind so hard
My helpless jaw is screaming for release
That gets old pretty fast and don't you believe it that I'm through
So through
So good at what you do
Clinging so tightly to everything that never meant a thing at all
Hey it just feels better to blame you all the time
It just feels better to say I never did a goddamn thing
Why do you build yourself up for killing me
You've got a whole lot of shit going wrong for you
I know it's hard to see the ground
Well settle down
So confused as what you're standing on
Well settle down
