

Luxx, Understand

First time that I saw you was in a dream I had today
You were tied up and had nothing real to say
There were candles all around you
I must have put them there
Then you spoke and said how much you think you care

Do you really understand, I don't think so
So you really understand

I think I stole your spotlight, 'cause we all can see through you
As the world are packed in shelters made for two Should I tell them all your secret
Or will you promise them the sky
I guess we're at the bottom of your lie

Do you really understand, I don't think so
So you really understand
Do you really understand, I don't think so
So you really understand

Tell me are you still around
Tell me where can you be found
Is there anyone to find the way

Just remember where you came from
You ask us to do the same
Another generated promise in your game
If I could instigate a lesson
For us all to learn from this
I would bottle it and pay for all our sins

Do you really understand, I don't think so
So you really understand
Do you really understand, I don't think so
So you really understand

Tell me are you still around
Tell me where can you be found
Is there anyone to find the way
If you're gonna let me down
tell me where can you be found
Is there anyone to find the way

Do you really understand, I don't think so
So you really understand
Do you really understand, I don't think so
So you really understand
