

Maanam, Red Cowboys

Enough imagination
To get you through your life
Laughing louder
When you want to cry
Washed out in the rain
Dried out on the street

Your steely eyes are steady
Your teeth all flashing white
When it comes to talking
You keep your mouth shut tight
Clench up you fists
Your shoulders pushed back wide

Remember your mother's smile
See your father's face
Be tough enough
through the nights and days

Remember your state of mind
When your heart attacks
Keep yourself together
Red Cowboys Rule ok!

Forget the schools that taught you
What right is wrong
A man's home is always
Where a man belongs
The world's just another place
So go and try your luck
