

Macbeth, Grey skies

We could forget the world outside
If you dont care
Skies are grey but rooms are blue
Safe place to hide
You have to know that silence kills
More than the steel
These are my final words to you

"If you wake up tonight
Say it now
In the heat of the night
Grey skies
While screams knock your door
Say it now
Leave your doubt behind
Grey skies

If you dont want to live a lie
If things just feel so wrong once more
Dont hide behind your stupid pride
And say whats wrong"
We could forget the blood outside
If you dont care
Streets are cold but the fire warms
These solid walls
You have to know that pride will kill
More than the steel
These are my final words to you

"If you wake up tonight
Say it now
In the heat of the night
Grey skies
While screams knock your door
Say it now
Leave your doubt behind
Grey skies

If you dont want to live a lie
If things just feel so wrong once more
Dont hide behind your stupid pride
And say whats wrong"
Here is my blood
Until I die
Until we die
