

Mad Caddies, Today

Woke up this morning at the end of another bottle I don't know what's really going on My hands are shaking my heads reminding me that last night I must of have had some fun
I've been here so many times you get used to the pain
But I don't want to play these self destructive games, once again I will say

Today will be the day
Today I'm gonna change

Locked inside another damn day wondering just how I'm gonna turn my life around Throw me a rope something to save me cause I'm sailing on a ship that's goin' down
So lift me off my feet and hang me up to dry (whoa-a-o) nothing around the clock but I'll give it one more try

Today will be the day
Today I'm gonna change
Today will be the day that I'll give it up;
I'll just give in, and let a brand new life begin

It's getting late and I see the lines there, I'll be tempted once again Shining bright like a thousand little lights all just begging me to come on in for one It's not gonna kill me

Today will be the day
Today I'm gonna change
Today will be the day
Today I'm gonna change
Today will be the day
Today I'm gonna change