Magnum, The Seventh Darkness

You can hardly remember their names But they know how to act On a wall it says dead or alive And they're so neatly wrapped On the highway that's goin' nowhere They will surely get lost Maybe they'll be a king for the day Keepin' their fingers crossed

Need the courage to run through the night Wings of angel's dark eyes Endless talkin' that puts out the flame Still the mountain survives Join the party and sing rebel songs Maybe it's just a sham If the princess has never been kissed Drink your wine save the lamb

They're all lookin' for someone who knows the answers They'll keep lookin' for a thousand years

Well a blind man sees better than them In his darkness no fear Yeah he's smilin' but knows how to cry Countin' every tear Past or present they're one and the same Politicians beware What they want is the thing they can't have It won't answer their prayer

No more mercy with blood in your eyes
And you can't break the spell
Just like thunder you dream the same dream
Couldn't wish it farewell
In the classroom where nightmares still hide
And the future runs past
Everybody wants fortune and fame
Just how long can it last
