

Mainstay, Where Your Heart Belongs

You lost yourself in finding out the wonders of the world will let you down
You gave yourself to those who never cared about your soul
They only cared for their own
It seems everyone has left you

You're not alone, I hear you call And I've been waiting here for you through it all

And let me show you where your heart belongs

You've been down the darkest roads and you know just how it feels to lose your hope But don't give up on everything when everyone has given up on you And it feels like everyone has left you

To the only love you need
