

Maktub, You Can't Hide

Everybody's got some devotion, hidden somewhere along the way One false hope leads to the notion forever wasn't built in a day, but you keep rolling away trying to escape inevitability heading your but you keep rolling away praying for the day your mighty riches will come falling someday

We stand our ground, we are young, we rely on our defiance just to lose what we have found

I can't believe the state of things that's goinh on with the whole wide world in a mess I don't think we're ever coming down but you keep rolling away trying to escape inevitability heading your
but you keep rolling away praying for the day your mighty riches will come falling someday

We stand our ground, we are young, we rely on our defiance just to lose what we have found

You can't hide, from everything you are You can't hide, from everything you is You can't hide, if you love me over here
You can't hide, I will love you over there