

Malcolm Middleton, The Loneliest Night Of My Life

I don't remember yesterday, I don't remember falling
The lonliest night of my life come calling
No one broke my heart but it sure took some beating, The loneliest night of my life
There's a war on today, you've got to catch the train
It's coming to an end so slowly, so slow
Seagulls been circling my house for a week
I'm sorry but I think we both know... That I'm so out of date and I'm so out of time
That hand-writing doesn't even look like mine. It's six past four, I'll soon be on my way To exit the room
I don't remember yesterday, I don't remember falling
The lonliest night of my life come calling
No one broke my heart but it sure took some beating, The loneliest night of my life
Even the taps don't drip anymore, I just need a punch in the head
Tablets to breath, tablets to sleep, tablet's just my favourite sweet
My eyes are always shut and they're always here, Inside this house and inside this skin
It's 5:14 and it'll soon be time to leave the loneliest night of my life behind
I don't remember yesterday, I don't remember falling
The lonliest night of my life come calling
No one broke my heart but it sure took some beating, The loneliest night of my life
