

Malibu Stacy, Killing All The Young Gods

The window's covered yet again
With dust so thick you can't look in
Wrote baby, help me now, I'm hit
Then turned around and went to bed

If I drew a sun it'd shine again
If I play music people dance
Oh baby you're the one I want
I loose control of everyone

1 so sorry
2 so coy and coy
3 for ever
4 for joy

It's all right now
You're breathin' in again

Came in back from work again
The kids will get their candy vent
Sudden chills ran up my spine
My window pane said I am fine

The sun was floating in the air
And people dancing here and there
Or was it all my buttercup
Writing sweet to cheer me up

1 so very
2 so coy and coy
3 for ever
4 for joy

You wish she heard and went
To get that feeling up your skin
And turn it into something nice and spineless
She came 'round and said
If I get what I want, I'd come on and on
And will give my own stitch onto what you wish

All right now
You're breathin' in again

An angel came and went
Responding to despair
Call it what you want
Defeating everyone
Though wasting time again
Not thinking of herself
A message that she sent
That everything is fine now, yeah

Your angel heard it all and came
To get that feeling up your skin
She turned it into something nice and spineless
She came 'round
You smile 'cause you don't care
And you're the one
Who's killing all the young gods
You're killing all the young gods
You're killing all the young gods
You're killing all the young gods
You're killing all the young gods