

Mando Diao, Duel Of The Dynamite faithful to the sun, moon and stars i will rest my sword when i'm all forgotten the duel of the dynamite here and we welcome it with all we have to offer you'll see the day but when my love i can not say my eyes are so tired my legs they can barely carry me so here's the time for pain my love feels like the pouring rain my love don't last through out the day i wouldn't mind the lack of change anyway but i'm no longer safe in my home so i'm leaving you to write my happy story don't behave the way that you should you should leave it to the thoughts and all their glory you hear me say that i can change in every way your eyes are so tired your legs they can barely carry you so here's the train

my love feels like the pouring rain
my love don't last through out the day well i wouldn't mind the lack of change anyway