Maria Taylor, Two Of Those Two

There was a time two fearless minds Where we packed up for a new place A college town with a musical sound And everyone had a new face There was something there Maybe it was the trees Or the flowery air Or that everyone seemed so glad They were there And we were two of those two We were two of those two

We got a house in between a homeless shelter And a coffee shop We painted the walls until we couldn't reach I said, &guot;It looks cool this way, let's stop.&guot;

There were always people there Maybe it was the music We played on the record player Or that everyone seemed so glad They were there And we were two of those two We were two of those two

And those were the times
The quietest days
We'll sit and smile and remember
Nothing could feel the same
We were so free
We were in each passing second

And you can't sustain Anything, everything must change So be thankful for everything And I am I am I am
