

Marianne Faithfull, They Never Will Leave You

They never will leave you
The pain and the sorrow
Of love that one day maybe
You will learn

Can only be shared by you
And how much I yearn
The days that we once knew
Will never return.

They never will leave
The rain and the storms
The snow and the winds
That guide you depart.

They took you far away
Right out of my life.
They condemned us and
They'd stolen my heart.

They never will leave you,
My hopes or my memories.
I've lost all my loving,
Got nowhere to turn.

My happiness with you
Has drowned in my tears,
The tears that will fall until
The day you return.

The tears that will fall until
The day you return.
The tears that will fall until
The day you return.
