Marillion, This Train Is My Life

This train is my life Speeding through the night We have been to these places For barely a moment

Wide awake Sometimes sleeping Sometimes watching Sometimes dreaming

Through stroby stations Too fast to know their names Too fast to know if we came or will come again

Sleeping towns joined together By the steel of the rails Parallel lines Parallel lives

You and I We're movie-rich We're reflected in the window The dark night's black mirror glass Distant lights from the wrong side of the tracks

Christmas lights Go by in the houses Anonymous windows Anonymous rooms of Anonymous souls

So take my hand Squeeze it tight Make some light In the darkness I'm glad you came on this trip Don't lose your grip Don't lose your grip This train is my life This train is my life

Travel with me And we'll see..
