

Mark Lind, Be Your Man

My face ain't pretty and the timing ain't right
It seems every time we talk it starts up a fight
You got a man you think loves you right
But here's your golden ticket so don't let it pass you by
Life ain't nothing like a fairy tale
I know you're ready but your chance is here
It can't all go along to your plans
So take a leap of faith and I'll be your man
I know you got a man
But it won't get you very far at all
I'll be your man and I'll catch you when you fall
You think you're satisfied with your pretty man
You say he ain't a bad guy like I give a damn
Honey, I can give you all the things you need
So leave it all behind and come along with me
I know you got a man
But it won't get you very far at all
I'll be your man and I'll catch you when you fall
Don't leave me here waiting on a hope and a prayer
My face ain't pretty and the timing ain't right
It seems every time we talk it starts up a fight
You got a man you think loves you right
But here's your golden ticket so don't let it pass you by
I know you got a man
But it won't get you very far at all
I'll be your man and I'll catch you when you fall
