Marquess, Late Im counting people walking through doors the man whos working there he stares at me he must be