

Matchbook Romance, Tiger Lily

We drive tonight,
And you are by my side
We're talking about our lives,
Like we've known each other forever
The time flies by,
With the sound of your voice
Its close to paradise
With the end surely near
And if I could only stop the car
And hold onto you,
And never let go...
I'll never let go.
As we round the corner
To your house
You turned to me and said,
"I'll be going through withdrawal of you for this one night we have spent."
And, I want to speak these words
But I guess I'll just bite my tongue,
And accept "someday, somehow"
As the words that we'll hang from.

And I... don't want to speak these words.
Cause I, don't want to make things any worse.

Why does tonite, have to end?
Why don't we hit restart,
And pause it at our favorite parts.
We'll skip the goodbyes
If I had it my way,
I'd turn the car around and runaway,
Just you and I

And I... don't want to speak these words.
Cause I, don't want to make things any worse.
