

Matt Pond PA, Put Your Hair Down put your nature in the dirty turn pull it out you found that you've gone bad like stones we dream to only stay asleep there's no forgetting put your hair down, put your hair down it's time to find out who you really are too careful in the light of permanence there's only seconds and though you say we go too far it's not enough to know your name around the hedges you hide so hard

not enough to know your name wouldn't ask, it couldn't be explained reasons and resistance are a lie how the functions added up to shame when no one's looking

too careful killed the meaning that you meant when there's no time left
