

Matt Wertz, Even The Streets

I try leaving you at home but every thought returns to you My head, it seems to roam no matter what I do...yeah yeah, oh no no

You know it's late right now and every song sings of us I guess these singers know somehow and my life they must discuss...oh yeah

(Chorus)
'Cause I left the pictures of you behind
'cause I didn't want to dwell on you But even the streets speak your name out here and in last night's movie too, in last night's movie too

Mountains now in the rear view as the tired road creeps on and on and on and on and on Perhaps I'll leave you in Colorado with this Monday morning fog

But the pictures await me back home, yeah and there the streets whisper, whisper your name, yeah escape it seems impossible...sometimes and I'm the one to blame, yeah I'm the one to blame

(Chorus)
'Cause I left the pictures of you behind
'cause I didn't want to dwell on you But even the streets speak your, your sweet, your sweet name here and last night's movie too, but last night's movie too

I've tried, I've tried leavin'
I've tried, I've tried leavin'
I've tried, I've tried leavin'
you behind, you behind (whole verse 2x)
...but you wouldn't stay
...but you wouldn't stay
Thank God you didn't.
