

Melanie C, You'll Get Yours

Should of trusted my own feelings

But I silenced intuition when you sacrificed your honesty

I believed that you would be there to protect me

And help me with all I'm going through

There's a joy to being free

That you could have taken from me

But I found the strength to walk away

If you turn the pages and you look inside

There is nothing of me I feel that I have to hide

If you turn the tables and look at yourself

Is there something you feel that you would have to confess

Many things will come to pass, I can live with that

I can't help but wonder when, you'll get yours

I'm so happy I have moved on

I heard you are regretful, but you sacrificed your dignity

With the power you have abused you disgust me

And trust me, I'm not the only one

Haven't I already proved

That I'm better off without you

I'm so glad I walked away

If you turn the pages and you look inside

There is nothing of me I feel that I have to hide

If you turn the tables and look at yourself

Is there something you feel that you would have to confess

Many things will come to pass, I can live with that

I can't help but wonder when, you'll get yours

For all the lies and your manipulations

For all the times I never felt good enough

You pushed me round, and put me down

To satisfy your childish ego

For all the times you made me feel worthless

The power struggles, now I couldn't care less

It sounds to you, there's nothing you can do
What goes around, comes around
If you turn the pages and you look inside
There is nothing of me I feel that I have to hide
If you turn the tables and look at yourself
Is there something you feel that you would have to confess
Many things will come to pass, I can live with that
I can't help but wonder when, you'll get yours