

Men Without Hats, Everybody Wants To Know i heard you whisper on the train you weren't as free as you'd been lately before we walk this way again i could tell you stories that changed me

'cause everybody wants to know what life is all about nobody wants to feel they're being left out not everybody wants a family and a fancy house

i heard you whisper in the trees you weren't as free as you could have been lately before we wonder one of these i could tell you stories that saved me

and nobody wants to feel they're being left out not everybody want a family and a fancy house

so let's sit at home and count the stars and think it out
'cause everybody wants to know what life is all about and even when it rains love protects you call her secret name and don't forget you want a world you can't explain

nobody wants to feel they're being left out
not everybody wants a family and a fancy house everybody wants to know what love is all about so let's sit at home and count the cars and laugh it out
'cause everybody wants to know what life is all about

don't forget you
want a world you can't explain
