

Merle Haggard, Love Will Find You

You can't hide yourself away from the problems of today
You can't hide yourself at night just turn off the bedroom light
And you can't try to hide your feelings they'll be heavy on your mind
You can't hide yourself from love cause love will come and find you everytime
And if you're fighting with love you have no way to win
You might as well go on give on in
And through the years I've come to know love commands and love is never blind
You can't hide yourself from love love will come and find you everytime [guitar]
If you're fighting with love...