

Mest, As His Black Heart Dies

His actions speak nothing but lies
Intoxicated eyes
And lonely hearts
Are held accountable for Disease eats inside
Nothing left to hide
The sun starts to rise
As his black heart dies

You're my mistake
And I know it's wrong
Don't let the truth be told
Scared of what you don't know
These secrets keeping us alive

Break my chest in two
A shallow heart for you
Half a heart is all you see
Bleeding off dependency
Got nothing left to hide
As his black heart dies

You're my mistake
And I know it's wrong
Don't let the truth be told
Scared of what you don't know
These secrets keeping us alive

I leave my heart to take
With blood shot eyes
Your heart will break
As this night fades again
So broken down I've lost again
I'm lost again

You're my mistake
And I know it's wrong
Don't let the truth be told
Scared of what you don't know
These secrets keeping us alive
