

Mest, Be Alright

It's 2am she said, why are you still awake?
I said "I can't forget about that guy named Jake"
He had no friends or family
And all he wanted was a little money

CHORUS:

And he tries to survive in a life even though, he feels like he might die
He cries sometimes late at night wondering if everything will ever be alright

There he is again, walking down the street
He sees a man, some call him Preach
The preacher sat him down, and gave him time to talk
And then right then and there, God came into his heart

And he tries to survive in a life even though, he feels like he might die
He cries sometimes late at night wondering if everything will ever be alright

And he tries to survive in a life even though, he feels like he might die
He cries sometimes late at night wondering if everything will ever be alright

And he tries to survive in a life even though, he feels like he might die
He cries sometimes late at night wondering if everything will ever be alright

And he tries to survive in a life even though, he feels like he might die
He cries sometimes late at night wondering if everything will ever be alright

Ever be alright
Ever be alright tonight...