Michael Penn, Bunker Hill

Always thought it was a game with us Move until enough's enough Into a picture-perfect view I'd like to rip it up with you Why would anybody leave this place? It's overdrawn And won't erase And if you're feeling incomplete The line is stretching up the street

So take a look
But you might stay until
You have counted every light from Bunker Hill
Take a coat you're going to freeze

My baby sees every sentence with an underline
Never uses turpentine
Put out a fleece and build a kite
A siren's going off tonight
Lay your head down
Do you call this chance?
Found the exit
This entrance
Now's the time
And it is still
I'm sorry that I kept you waiting here until

Hey, Luanda Do you want a thrill? We can watch the lights shine up from Bunker Hill But if it puts your heart at ease My baby, please

Try,
But you can't hide
Impossible. You're lit from the inside
And all I've got to do is
Keep my eyes above the ground
To see you move around

The only points of light are fires on Vermont Somebody must suspect that all we really want Is a tranquilizer gun to fill It's a free-for-all on Bunker Hill And everybody wets their knees On the trapeze
