

Michael Reich, Living Day To Day

Living day to day

Change change change Whatever's eating your mind Strange strange strange This world is so unkin

Count the minutes as they roll Through this world out of control

Try try try To see through the haze Cry cry cry

Don't want to waste my days Show me something that's genuine In which I can believe

Which direction is the key To peace of mind and feeling free

Every step of the way Every step of the way I've been Living day to day

Corruption is king I must say Common sense keeps slipping away
