

Montgomery Gentry, If A Broken Heart Could Kill

I've never had a broken bone
I hardly ever get a cold
I keep myself in pretty good shape
But I know I wouldn't be here today

If a broken heart could kill
I'd be long gone
Ashes to ashes dust to dust by now 6 feet under a tombstone on the hill lyin there alone in my new found home
if a broken heart could kill

I've run the rapids jumped from a plane been the earthquakes and hurricanes I've climbed mountains been a rodeo clown
But after you I'm lucky I'm still around

If a broken heart could kill
I'd be long gone
ashes to ashes dust to dust by now 6 feet under a tombstone on the hill
lyin there alone in my new found home

yeah i'd be heaven bound or on my way down
if a broken heart could kill
