

Moving Units, Pink Thoughts

Why can't you try and love me
Because I'm standing on the edge so shove me
There's no time to rewind to Springtime
Before our minds turned cold
Now it's winter love's a splinter
And our heart beats way too slow

So long, nice to know that you once were a major part of me
Love comes and ruins everyone but so what
So what's the point of it all
Nothing stays forever
We try to keep it together
Until we fall apart again

So now my lovelife's a graveyard full of broken bones
And memories of love ones before I was alone
With myself in my hell with secrets I can't tell
'Cuz they're only for the lonely
And the lonely never tell

So long, nice to know that you once were a major part of me
Love comes and ruins everyone but so what
So what's the point of it all
Nothing stays forever
We try to keep it together
Until we fall apart again

So let's fall apart again
'Cuz its so nice not to think twice
While we're planning to make our escape
From the bad things and the sad things
That we always come back to again
Like a refrain like a weak vein
Like a story so gory we can't
Seem to tear ourselves away

So long, nice to know that you once were a major part of me
Love comes and ruins everyone but so what
So what's the point of it all
Nothing stays forever
We try to keep it together
Until we fall apart again
Until we fall apart again
Come on let's fall apart again

We get so emotional
We get so damn emotional
We get so emotional
We get so damn emotional