Yo listen

I met this girl on Baltic Ave.

And you can tell how she steps on boardwalk,

She was park place

I asked what she was doing on this side of town

She said she had some taxes to pay

I figure I'd take a chance and advance to go

And find out more about

Cause there more to know than the way she ways

And the way that she wears her clothes,

Or the way she plays this game (so cold)

She said she came up rough

And one income was not enough

There'd be nights she'd go to sleep hungry

Cause her mom was always short on food and money

See people used to joke a lot

Tease her bout her clothes not being in style

Dressed in dingy skirts and dirty sneakers

From the finest second hand down Oriental Ave.

(Chorus)

But now look at her

She got this game on lock

Anything she ever wanted now she got it

And I've gotta say

And I'm proud to see

That someone like her is in central

Womanopoly

Once she graduated junior high she started working overtime

Scrubbing floors or working on assembly lines

Just so she could help her mother out and

After college they moved into Marvin Gardens

And she got a job working at the city water department

To raise enough cash
In move into community chest condos on Pennsylvania Ave
She fell in love with this dude named ray
Who was a small time hustler from St. Charles place
And he was known for always bein in and out of trouble
But the problem was that he was never on her level
She argued with her mom about ray's work
Til he was sent upstate on the same day that she gave birth
But see the baby never made it, it drove her nearly crazy
And she couldn't take it

(Chorus)

(Listen) see where she came from
Many people find it hard just to hang on
You often find them in the same place complaining
Instead of finding a better way of maintain
She could have balled up and cry
Wished that she would die
And just gave up on tryin
Instead she grind from the bottom
Just to make it to the bottom now shes flying

(Chorus)
