

Mute Math, Typical

Come on, can't I dream for one day
There's nothing that can't be done?
But how long should it take somebody
Before they can be someone?

'Cause I know there's got to be another level
Somewhere closer to the other side
And I'm feeling like it's now or never
Can I break the spell of the typical?

I've lived through my share of misfortune
And I've worked in the blazing sun
But how long should it take somebody
Before they can be someone?

'Cause I know there's got to be another level
Somewhere closer to the other side
And I'm feeling like it's now or never
Can I break the spell of the typical?

Because it's dragging me down
I'd like to know about when,
When does it all turn around?