

Myriads, Miserere Mei

(Music: Myriads, Lyrics: Alexander Twiss and Mona Undheim Skottene)

Like the falling star on the firmament
I view the vast horizon
Planets drift by in the nebula
Grand movements paralyze me My reflection seem to be endless

Embellished thoughts of limitless starlight gather
The outer rim of sanity
Path of destiny
Proud forest rises towards the sky, in awe I stand silent Green path of life amalgamates
With my own belief

(Chorus)
Follow me further through This flight of chaos
In misery and pain I am,
I wander through this cherished path In despair I am pitiful, haunted by a brooding doubt Please assuage this agony and wash away my misery, into great oceans and grand seas where the source of life began

Melting into the universe being part of the cosmos
The starless night embraces me
My thoughts are bewildered Am I misplaced here in this world, alone in my grief?
Procreate life and let it grow in outlandish landscapes Feeling subordinated, outshined by earth

(Chorus)

Miserere mei Deus Secundum magnam misericordiam tuam et secundum multitudinem miserationum tuarum dele iniquitatem meam

Anguish in me, kills me, relieves me

I weaken now compared to nature
I am nothing, please bear with me

Upon this fertile planet
I stand in broad daylight I am caressed gently by a sun which enlightens my mind
It never perceived my shadow nor my grief and my sorrow
I am merging into the fire Cosmic unity

(Chorus)

Am I infused by the earth?
Did the world have a birth?
Life filled by fertility in an astral unity Elements perpetually, circling eternally

Affliction in me, helps me, relieves me

Like the falling star on the firmament
I am the great horizon
Planets drift by in the nebula
Grand movements encapsulate me
The universe seems to be endless
