Myslovitz, Good day my angel

Good day my angel I'll great you with black and white What do you want more The day's too short and the night belongs to us In my eyes you can see Fear of your future In my soul there's no shelter Under your wings shadow Good day my angel I can hear your knocking at my gates Good day my angel I can hear your knocking at my gates Do you bring today happiness Or the ray may run to words the lie Spread your wings so that I would feel a piece of heaven Spread your wings so that I would feel no pain when I die Good day my angel I can hear your knocking at my gates Good day my angel I can hear your knocking at my gates Do you bring today happiness Or the ray may run to words the lie Spread your wings so that I would feel a piece of heaven Spread your wings so that I would feel no pain when I die Good day my angel I can hear your knocking at my gates Good day my angel I can hear your knocking at my gates
