

Name Taken, Magnolia

Quit surrounding me
I'm already down and cornered
Locked in defeat as your bright eyes beam
The only thing holding me here
Why won't you quit dragging me 'round?

And we can tell by now
That there's no such thing as running
And I can't do anything to forget all that you are

And how long must I wait, oh, to break
And you know it'd be easier to snap in half by now
But you won't let me go

And we can tell by now
That there's no such thing as running
And I can't do anything to forget all that you are

Forget all you are

And I'm forever lost from home

And now you seem all too real
