

Name Taken, You Do It So Well and any day you are too far from the sky to feel the sun

the warmth you miss, i'll no longer try oh, to replace
just grow colder every friday night
to lose yourself
till you've lost everything.

well i'm a wreck and close to locking my door from the rest of, the rest of this don't need to hear, "you're missing out tonight" you dont think that I know don't think I know.

and any day you're too far from the sky
to feel the sun
the warmth you miss, i'll no longer try
oh, to replace
just grow colder every friday night
to lose yourself
till you've lost everything

and you're so lovely and still so lost so privileged that that you forgot how proud you are of being everything but genuine genuine

and any day you're too far from the sky
to feel the sun
the warmth you miss, i'll no longer try
oh, to replace
just grow colder every friday night
to lose yourself
till you've lost everything

and you do it so well the way you raise you glasses to forget how you felt an existence dedicated too long summers empty bottles and empty hearts

and you do it so well
the way you raise glasses till you've lost all your chances the way you meet your ends, till you've lost all your friends and you do it so well
the way you raise glasses till you've lost all your chances
the way you meet your ends, the way you do it so well