

Namelessnumberheadman, Conspicuous Minima

High above the ocean
High above the sea
High above this ink and paper, you were next to me.
Called you from the window
Called you from the drowsy, halfway stubborn sleeping.
Waves repeat with anger
Waves repeat with cause.
Waves repeat in perfect sequence
Serve to give us pause.
Stand to face this morning
I'll sing the sun up, push my feet forward
Stumble to the next oasis

One of us is home, I know.

Count the leaves in tandem 8 then 5 then 3
Find the pattern, pray the pathway soon revealed to be Fix my eyes upon you
Landlocked from the winter sparrows
An ocean full of ink can't write that

One of us is home, I know.
