

Natalie Brown, I Wonder

She looked cold and she shivered
Even though the sun was shining down
Life, it roared on despite her
But she couldn't even hear the sound
I could tell by the wrinkled lines
Like a map criss-crossing her face
She had seen much and I wondered
What had brought her here to this place

It's amazing what this life can put you through Yes it is
There's a choice to make in all the things you do

I wonder what brought her to this place
Is it memories gone without a trace
Seems as though she's lost in time and space
I wonder

She just stared straight ahead
Like she was trying to concentrate
Maybe if she could focus
She would open her memory floodgate
Something strange seemed to possess her
And it would not let her go
Searching deep down inside her
To find a feeling she had once known

And I wonder what this life has put her through
Yes I do
And I wish that there was something I could do for her

I wonder what brought her to this place
Is it memories gone without a trace
Seems as though she's lost in time and space
I wonder
