

Natasha Khan & Jon Hopkins, Garden's Heart

We lived in the Garden's Heart
And open it up for the sky
The world is so far away
But I was coming a lot by your side
And now the sky is snowing harsh
And we are talking from so far away
I hear whispers in the trees
When I am you
And you are me

And when you?ll back here
Remember what I said
This place is in between
You have to find it
You need to find way back here
Remember what I said
This place is in between
You have to find it
You have to find it