

Nemesis 66, Left With Nothing New

The days keep going by and I can't believe I made it here without you
You said we'd make it if we tried.
You didn't mean to disapoint me?
So why'd you run and hide?
And take away from me what I had left inside?

Now I see the world from a different point of view
And all the things that I've done wrong
I try to look away, and hide myself from you
But I know there's nothing I can do

Today's the day I chose to tell you
What you mean to me
But again I hide away, and now you'll never see.
Another week gone by
I stand alone and slowly melt away
My chance is over now, 'cause he took you away.....

Now I see the world from a different point of view
And all the things that I've done wrong
I try to look away, and hide myself from you
But I know there's nothing I can do

Now I see the world from a different point of view
And all the things that I've done wrong
I try to look away, and hide myself from you
But I know there's nothing I can do