Neurosis, Left To Wander

A light went out of the world today The spirit rose like smoke The corpse gave in to the ether We're left to wander at the void

We're left to wander

The race to render your vision A fracture in the world can devour Return to the light of the bearer The radiant breaks down into life

We're left to wander