

Neurosis, Sovereign

her rain is black rust and melts down heavy on dreaming heads it cuts through she floods the dark oads of the past like the dark night embraces a shadow a fold in time brings her madness worn from and age of wars a sovereign pain

a will tattered by a thousand storms and explosion of memories echod in the skull faith in this will bring us all to her we will know and feel all that is real