

Neutral Milk Hotel, My Dreamgirl (Don't Exist)

My dream
My dream girl don't exist
At the age of 5 she slit her wrists
She didn't know that I'd be hanging around
So her parents buried her in the ground
My dream girl don't exist
She's working at a McDonald's in Madison Wisconsin She could have been cool but she let the system get to her She forgot all about art and just made hamburgers
My dream girl don't exist
They're sitting around watching TV They're out stuffing- shit &lt;/lyrics>

====Newer Live Version====

&lt;/lyrics>
my dream girl don't exist
and at the age of five she slit her wrists
she didn't know that I'd be hanging around
so her parents buried her in the ground this day I can still hear the sound of a life in outer space

my dream girl don't exist it just you and I and this TV and this illness seems to feel so strange like a henchman that's about to hang the moon, up like a ball and chain and the weight is waiting off feel the world so real and strung

just a photograph in a history book and I believe she had a voice and name three children on the coast of Maine her life was in a hurricane of love and real embrace

my dream girl don't exist
and at the age of five she slit her wrists
she didn't know that I'd be hanging around so one day she took a stroll to town and walked in front of a Greyhound bound for New York central state and the weight is waiting off

and the weight is waiting off fell the world so real and strung she know, and knows she knows she'll never be afraid
