

New Found Glory, JB

well i started all alone and i watched you grow and now please don't take this away from me you rise then you fall sometimes it seems like you're not there at all but that's the way it should be well take me for example and erase your opinions about me only time will tell where will you be where have you gone two years of my life now it's all gone