

New Order, Touched By The Hand Of God

I was standing by the ocean when I saw your face I couldn't look at you
I guess you knew it but I never realised that we were through
And now I'm down here all alone with every feeling that I own you can't take that away
And with every breath we take and the illusions we create will come to you someday

And I was touched by the hand of God
I never knew it, but of course I was

I never hoped to do the things in this world I wanted to Because everything I own, it belongs to you
I've never looked at you in a sexual way in my life before
And I've never woken up like this so desperately before

And I was touched by the hand of God
I never knew it, but of course I was