

Nixons, Nobody 101

Stood before you still you said
You couldn't put your finger on it
Who I was from where I came to you I'm just another name
Show me upstairs to the place you said this really would mean nothing
There must have been a hundred through these doors
And boy you're just one more

For now I'll stay though I probably should run
I guess this makes me nobody 101

Till you're standing right in front of me
Just like you know I'd want you to be
And you're smiling like that, don't smile like that
Don't smile like that

She said anything is possible
Thank you may I have another
Looks perfect in this light
At least for one night
Show me to the place inside there should be something I'm sure
Must have been a hundred through these doors
What makes you think you're anything more

Couldn't be more blind if you were staring at the sun
I guess this makes me nobody 101

And you're standing right in front of me
Just like you knew I'd want you to be
And you're smiling like that, don't smile like that
Don't smile like that

And you're standing right in front of me
Just like you knew I'd want you to be
And you're smiling like that, don't smile like that
Don't smile like that

You know it kills me every time you smile
You're smiling like that, don't smile like that
Don't smile like that