

No Assembly Required, International Love Affair

why are you here waiting for me? i'd never leave you there and if you cared why did you murder and leave them there to die?
why are you still holding his hand when you know he's not alive?
you're moving on, it's still too hard knowing that he's gone what if i told you i loved you, but threw you all away?

and if i could heal your bruises, why risk you hating me?
would you stop to follow or end up feeding flames?
all that will be left is everything you said drowning in your pain