

Odds, We'll Talk

A tear walked down from my fingertip
Like a ladybug sidetracked from a favorite trip
We never got to the touching feeling
Cause the skins to sensitive when the wounds are healing

Like ice cream, to close to the playground
Im no good for you, but you still want me around
If you picked the moments when the cheeks were glowing
I hope theyre enough to, keep you going

And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk
'till we understand enough
And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk
'till every words used up
And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk
Like this was the toughest love
Then we'll fall asleep

The pain begins at the point of trust
Like life begins at the very, flash point of lust
The sun and moon and every movement
You can live with it, or expect improvement

And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk
'till we understand enough
And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk
'till every words used up
And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk
Like this was the toughest love
Then we'll fall asleep

And into our dreams
Where we wont have to figure out what anything means
And in there I can do whatever I choose
But Im faithfull when theres no way I can lose

And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk
'till we understand enough
And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk
'till every words used up
And we'll talk and we'll talk and we'll talk
Like this was the toughest love
Then we'll fall asleep
