Olly Murs, Back Around

I can feel the memory in my brain I can feel the cold running through my veins Like it's been, been this way, all of our life Looking in the mirror through your eyes Nothing makes sense, these tears won't dry I let you down, down and out, never thought twice

But than was the, this is now I know I said I never, but I know I let you down And it feels dead, in this town So tell me when will you bring love back around? Bring love back around Love back around

Funny how you never quite realised That you already have paradise Till it's gone, all the way, out of your life Looking in the mirror, don't know myself Nothing makes sense, this feels like hell I let you down, down and out, never thought twice

But than was then, this is now I know I said I never, but I know I let you down And it feels dead in this town So tell me when will you bring love back around? Love back around

Who can I touch? (There ain't nobody) Who can I trust? (There ain't nobody) Who can I love? (There ain't nobody) If it ain't you, you, you! /2x
