

Open Hand, 11th Street

As we lie here in bed
Your eyes run right through me
Did you hear what I said
I'm falling
I'm falling down
Falling down

She said
And I thought that you would listen
We were not meant to end
I still don't know
What we always were
And I thought that you would give in
you told me love would never die
But you lied
You always lied

There was a time
I thought you were something
Something that I would never be
Now is the time
I know that you're nothing nothing
That I would want to be

Did you hear a thing I said?
Your eyes roll right through me
And I thought that you would listen
We were not meant to end
I still don't know
What we always were
And I thought that you would give in
You told me love would never die
But you lied
You always lied

There was a time
I knew you were something
Something that I would never be
Now is the time
I know that you're nothing
Nothing that I would want to be

I feel like I am falling into my needs
I need for you to open your eyes

So give me one more try
I'll show you I can this time
To give my life

So give me one more try
So give me one more try
I feel the sun now
I feel the sun now