Orenda Fink, Blind Asylum

I am happy every hour of the day Every hour that I stay In this light house the doors don't open Forget what I had once been only hours before I am happy every hour of each day Every hour I remain In this blind asylum it can't be seen What I'd once been only hours before Only hours before

The tea man was old They'd see in me In the morning I'll close my eyes I'm leaving tonight I am happy
